

EMOTIONALLY EXCITING SIX PART PRODUCTION PENIS MONOLOGUES: LIVE OPENS IN ATLANTA

A Lube for the Mind Production

Atlanta, GA – After a sold-out, nine-week run of the erotic Off Broadway stage play RAW, esteemed Creative Director and Producer JL King returns with the new and emotionally exciting six-part production, Penis Monologues: LIVE. JL King, known for his instant best-selling books and DVDs on relationships, and gaps in the quality of healthcare and education, expands his credentials in the performing arts. Penis Monologues: LIVE chronicles the most intimate secrets about men’s relationship with their penises, and gives women the power to make better decisions and understand males through open dramatizations about the phallus – in the characters of: Good, Big, Sick, Alternative, Envy and Whore.

The Penis Monologues is a one-of-a kind theatrical performance wherein black men share their issues of control, love, relationships, marriage and self-esteem through how they view their penises. Opening the Penis Monologues: LIVE are the animated questions and puzzled scenarios narrated by a woman who stresses the issues that most all women want to know from a man: “Why couldn’t he be honest with me?” “What does he expect from me?” As she details a litany of situations, her frustration segues into the scripts of six men.

These candid and straight-forward monologues will leave the audience laughing, crying and begging for more. Imagine a choir of men – each discussing his first encounter with the opposite sex, or a proud black man describing how he loves his woman. Consider listening to earnest accounts of talks about relationships, sexual health and self appraisal, adorned with discussions of the assorted names for the penis. This experience will come alive this Fall at the Atlanta debut performance of Penis Monologues: Live. Following the Atlanta opening the dramatic episodic play will make stops in New York City, New Jersey, Los Angeles, Chicago, Miami and Cleveland.

For centuries and across cultures, it has been the common belief that men think with their heads. Penis Monologues: LIVE, a Lube for the Mind production, goes in-depth about why men think the way they do, and how to speak from the heart [to make better connections with women]. The stage play is hilarious and lively, as well as educational. It explores male sexuality through a series of stories that are at times funny, sad, enlightening, explicit and encouraging.

Drawing from the inspiration and advocacy of the Vagina Monologues, Penis Monologues: LIVE inspires a continued dialogue about men, activism, and how theatres can play a role in social change. Penis Monologues is a casual theatrical performance with ‘real talk’ about the power of the penis.

About Lube for the Mind Productions

Lube for the Mind Productions, a subsidiary of JL King, LLC specializes in creating performing arts works that engage the community, offer relevant information and foster relationships that spark the interests of the public. Lube for the Mind Productions is an independent agency dedicated to developing a pool of multicultural actors and providing equity in all aspects of mass media communications. Penis Monologues: LIVE is the inaugural Lube for the Mind Productions episodic play that celebrates the penis through views on sex, relationships, health and wellness. Lube for the Mind Productions is committed to offering multimedia performances that nourish the mind and invigorate community conversations. For more information and performance booking details the number is (866) 205-9228.
